Half the technique is in the utensils.

Whether you're a complete novice at anything culinary or a master chef that dominates the kitchen, a premium set of cooking utensils can immediately up your game. This particular 5-piece set from KitchCo features a number of innovations you'll find both welcome and useful. Each utensil – from the spatula turner to the spoonula to the mixing spoon to the slotted spoon to the soup ladle – is designed with a strong nylon core, and is completely covered in 100% seamless, premium-grade silicone. The flexible silicone edges enable each of the five cooking utensils to act as a spatula whenever needed.

Heat-resistant silicone won't melt.

Remember that age-old idiom, 'A watched pot doesn't boil'? With this premium silicone cooking utensil set from KitchCo, you can put the pot up, give things a good mix, and simply let it all cook while you focus on other things. And don't worry about leaving your spatula or soup ladel in the pot – they're all heat-resistant up to 480°F! This is particularly convenient when preparing hot sauces or other dishes that need frequent mixing. Simply leave the mixing spoon in the pot on the stove, without any fear of melted plastic in your food. Another nicety: The utensils can flex to get everything out of pot and pan corners.

For safety, savoriness and satiety.

At KitchCo, we understand the inherent responsibilities of keeping your food and kitchen safe. That's why the silicone used in this 5-piece cooking utensil set is 100% BPA-free, latex-free, and FDA certified food-grade. These silicone utensils offer all the benefits of traditional kitchenware, while introducing enhanced health benefits and promoting hygiene, convenience, durability, and superior ease of use. Despite their strength, the utensils are lightweight and feature ergonomic handles with machined holes for hanging storage. The entire set is dishwasher safe, so cooking and cleanup can be equally easy.
